Chapter 1: The Early Years

Oklahoma City was founded in 1889, at the height of the Oklahoma Land Run. The city quickly grew into a major center for agriculture and commerce. In the early 20th century, the city experienced a boom in oil and gas production, which led to further growth and prosperity.

Chapter 2: The Roaring Twenties and the Great Depression

The 1920s was a time of great prosperity for Oklahoma City. The city's economy boomed, and new buildings and businesses were constructed. The city also experienced a cultural renaissance, with the opening of new theaters and art galleries.

Oklahoma City in the Roaring Twenties

The Great Depression hit Oklahoma City hard. The city's economy collapsed, and many people lost their jobs. The city also experienced a wave of foreclosures and evictions.

Chapter 3: World War II and the Postwar Era

Oklahoma City played a major role in World War II. The city was home to several military bases, and its factories produced war materials. After the war, the city experienced a boom in population and economic growth.

Oklahoma City during World War II

In the postwar years, Oklahoma City continued to grow and develop. The city's economy diversified, and new industries were attracted to the area.

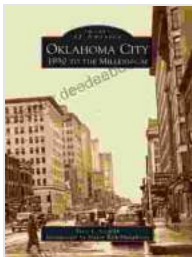

Chapter 4: The Modern Era

The 1970s and 1980s were a time of economic challenges for Oklahoma City. The city's economy was heavily dependent on oil and gas production, and the oil bust of the 1980s hit the city hard.

Oklahoma City in the modern era

In the 1990s, the city's economy began to diversify, and new industries were attracted to the area. The city also experienced a wave of urban renewal, with the construction of new downtown buildings and the revitalization of older
